

METHODS LAB

This interdisciplinary methods colloquium provides introductory training, education, and exposure to research methods for faculty and graduate students in the social sciences at the University of Utah. Our goal is to supplement existing methodology

Thursday, September 28th | 2pm - 3:15pm

Insincere and bot responses in survey responses and human subjects recruitment

Presented by Amber Thompson, Graduate Research Assistant, Sociology

Thursday, October 19th | 2pm - 3:15pm

Time and cost comparisons of five human subject recruitment strategies

Presented by Becky Utz and Cathi Sparks, Sociology

Thursday, November 30th | 2pm - 3:15pm

Economic evaluation and the new guidelines

Presented by Fernando Wilson, Economics courses and introduce scholars to methods used in other departments. By bringing faculty and graduate students together monthly basis, we will forge interdisciplinary connections and begin to establish a university-wide interdisciplinary methods training program.